Art Unit: 3744

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Claims 1 and 7 recite a second moveable member that can be repeatedly moved between the retracted and extended position and can be returnable to the extended position after being returned to the retracted position. There is no support for such limitations in the original specification.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cirelli et al (5,848,990) in view of Dysarz. Cirelli discloses the use of wings 4 with adhesive to hold a needle cannula to a patient's skin, a channel 11 in the movable member 10 that can be repeatedly moved between the retracted and extended position and coupled to the needle 9 in order to prohibit fluid flow when the member is in the retracted position and a intravenous line 6 in order to connect the cannula to a reservoir of fluid to be delivered to the patient. Dysarz teaches an apparatus having a housing 9, movable needle 37, second moveable member 27, spring 25, retention mechanism 13, and trigger release mechanism 8 for activating the release mechanism (see Figures 5 and 6). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the system of Cirelli such that it included the use of a spring, retention mechanism and trigger release mechanism for activating the release mechanism in view of the teachings of Dysarz. It is considered to be inherent that the trigger will make a noise of some volume when the trigger is activated and that the needle is removeably coupled to the moveable member.

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-14 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new grounds of rejection. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
